

Have We Been Lied To About The Moon?

Controversy has surrounded the Moon for a very long time. We have looks, research and information from some very credible sources who have, over a span of decades, been relaying to the public that our Moon is not what we think it is, and that there is, or at least was, some type of extraterrestrial presence on the Moon.

NASA ADMITS WE NEVER WENT TO THE MOON

No video I've ever seen has made as slum-dunk of an open-and-shut case as this one, that humans from Earth have never set foot on the Moon.

I never wanted to doubt that "we" went to the Moon. It was etched into my identity as an American since I was a toddler. I've seen other videos, which made convincing arguments against the veracity of certain photographs, that convinced me that some of the photos were faked. I figured it was difficult, with those cumbersome spacesuits and the challenging conditions on the Lunar surface to get a high-quality photograph. I figured that NASA wanted to make the most of their momentous achievement, so they did a little fibbing with certain images.

This video has ended any debate about the whole business of men landing on the Moon, in the words of NASA personnel, themselves.

This Hidden Detail of The Moon Landing Changes Everything.

JRE: "This Hidden Detail of The Moon Landing Changes Everything..."

One of the most amazing feats in human history was the Apollo 11 lunar landing on July 20, 1969. The moonwalking of American astronauts Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin that day was witnessed by an estimated 530 million TV viewers. However, that "giant leap for mankind" was allegedly falsified by others just a few years later. By the mid-1970s, the theory that the United States staged a moon landing to gain an advantage in the space competition with the Soviet Union had gained some popularity. These allegations are still being made now.

NASA Admits Moon Landing Was Fake in 1969 News Article "Americans Didn't Go To Moon": But How Did a Handful of Freemasons Fool Mission Control?

Nevertheless, the question remains, aside from NASA's technical inability to even guide a simple helicopter from 20 feet off the ground in 1969, which, in itself, annihilates the claim that NASA sent a multiple ton rocket 294,000 miles to a target that they claim to be unable to achieve in 2022, with ten million times more powerful computers, how did they fool Mission Control?

Edward Snowden: "The Moon Is Not What You Think It Is..."

According to Snowden, one big reason NASA hasn't gone back to the Moon is the huge amount of money it takes. It's like trying to buy a ticket to outer space – super expensive! Back when President Kennedy was in charge, he thought it would cost about 7 billion dollars, but in the end, it ended up being more than 20 billion dollars! That's a lot of cash. The Apollo project, which was all about going to the Moon, cost a whopping 25.8 billion dollars. In today's money, that's like 264 billion dollars! That's more money than most of us can even picture. And get this, over 400,000 people, along with help from more than 20,000 companies and schools, had to work together to make it happen. So, you can see why the cost was sky-high.

Elon Musk: "People Don't Realize the Mistake of The Moon Landing"

Humanity has always been interested in exploring the vast world of space beyond our planet. And what better place to start than on the moon? Plans to step foot on the moon started way back in 1960. Initially, the goal was to send a 3-man team to orbit the moon, not land on it. It was during the famous speech of then-president John Kennedy in 1962 that the dream of landing a man on the moon before 1970 was crystalized in the heart of America.
