Lahaina, Maui Devastated!! Were Directed Energy Weapons Used In Hawaii?

Updated: 2 days ago

"The DirectedEnergyWeapons (DEWs) being used on Hawaii are powerful enough to set the Pacific Ocean on fire," far-right online personality Stew Peters said. DEWs involve "high energy lasers and other high power electromagnetics" that "use concentrated electromagnetic energy to combat enemy forces and assets," according to the U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO).

Wildfire wreckage is seen Thursday, Aug. 10, 2023, in Lahaina, Hawaii. The search of the wildfire wreckage on the Hawaiian island of Maui on Thursday revealed a wasteland of burned out homes and obliterated communities as firefighters battled the deadliest blaze in the U.S. in recent years. While officials are focused on rescue operations and protecting property, Mr. Green said on Friday that he had authorized a review of the emergency response to the fires that decimated Lahaina. Telecommunications were destroyed, making it difficult to convey the ferocity of the fire. Mr. Green also described how helicopters were unable to spray water over the fire because of winds that reached as high as 80 miles per hour. Some residents said that they had not heard any warnings by the time the fires reached them.

-As dramatic first-person descriptions and images of the fire circulated on social media, suspicions and conspiracy theories about what caused it proliferated.

-A number of accounts on the X (formerly known as Twitter), Instagram, and Facebook proposed that the fires must have been started by a so-called "direct energy weapon, borrowing a conspiracy theory that first surfaced during the 2020–21 California wildfires. A user with the X handle @OrranteMaria claimed, "I know familiar like California fires. Direct energy weapon." Another user wrote, "Maui looks like a direct energy weapon attack ima." "This is a direct energy weapon, same as what happened in Paradise CA," said another.

Whodunit?

While instinctively the blame goes to a foreign power, there's the nagging possibility that the Maui strike involved person(s) from the USA and possibly Canada or even Europe. October 28, 1943, will mark the 40th anniversary of the so-called Philadelphia Experiment, when the destroyer USS Eldridge was hit by a beam that reassemble the ship's metal plate, somehow locking in sailors' arms and legs like prisoners in an old-style stock. Then the good ship Philly disappeared in the fog.

Was the laser strike against Maui some sort of warm-up celebration-by-reenactment of the Philadelphia Experiment? The date of Eldridge's disappearance into the ether is significance, coming as it did at the height of the Nazi regime's development and testing of "super-weapons" including V2 rockets, the atomic bomb (which Hitler refused to deploy), jet engines, helicopters and telepathic communications, supposedly with a distant advanced alien civilization. Was the red beam that destroyed Lahaina from that same advanced arsenal of mass destruction? Or was this show of bizarre force some sort of joke from the scientists working in America whose living disciples adored the ilk of Von Braun? Be aware of October 28, two months from now, or be an unwitting victim of something like 9/11. Avoid metal.

There is now a growing body of hard evidence that proves beyond a shadow of a doubt that the so-called Maui 'wildfires' were not wild at all; they were in fact the result of multiple acts of geoengineering, geoterrorism and pyro-terrorism.

Directed energy weapons are weapons that fire a beam of energy at a target without firing a projectile. This energy can be electromagnetic, particle or subparticle. These weapons can be used for non-lethal or lethal purposes.

The United States of America is one of the countries working to develop directed energy weapons for military purposes, expecting them to become part of the future of warfare.

How the Navy Accidentally ‘Disappeared’ an Entire Ship

The Philadelphia experiment is one of the most bizarre events in recent history. While working on a way to cloak their vessels from enemy radars and mines, the Navy accidentally triggered a chain event involving phase-shifting, invisibility, and even the teleportation of an entire ship.

The Philadelphia Experiment was a two-part process. It's not good enough to simply make a ship disappear, after all. No, you've got to be able to do something with it. And according to the second part of the story of the Philadelphia Experiment, the Navy did something with it. Because when the Eldridge disappeared in Philadelphia in July, it appeared somewhere else later. To be specific, the ship was seen 300 miles away in Norfolk, Virginia. Witness reports claim that all of a sudden, the Eldridge materialized in the waters around Norfolk. It was seen for only moments, then it vanished again. The date was October 28, 1943.
